The XXVII Conference will be held on 21-22 of September 2022 in on-line mode.
Beginning at 10:00 o'clock. We will provide a link a week before the conference

Principal scientific topics of the Conference:

- development of technologies ensuring appropriate conditions for animals, low-emission and low-energy livestock construction, work safety, reduction of energy consumption and increasing production efficiency,
- problems of renewable energy in rural areas, including the acquisition and management of agricultural biogas and methods of post-fermentation residue management, reducing greenhouse gas emissions and ammonia from plant and animal production
- sustainable agricultural production, circular economy with regard to environmental protection, organic farming, counteracting climate change,
- management of natural resources and soil and nature conservation in rural areas, innovative and intelligent agriculture,
- water protection and ecology, water pollution and impact on biodiversity;
- water, sewage and waste management in rural areas;
- biotechnology and plant physiology in rural areas;
- rational water management in drainage facilities, small water retention.

The basic conference fee is PLN 450, while for participants without a presentation, chapter in a monograph, and for PhD students, we provide discounts. The fee includes the costs of reviews of the articles provided by you, editorial work, printing, sending the monograph to the address provided by the Participants and providing on-line transmission. We encourage you to prepare an article in the form of a monograph chapter (20,000 characters), for which you are entitled to 20 points of the Ministry of Education and Science.

For all conference participants, the Journal of Water of Land Development magazine offers a 20% discount for the publication of the article (www.jwld.pl), with 100 points of the Ministry of Education and Science.

Deadlines:

Until 02/09/2022 - application for participation in the Conference, subject of presentation, title of the article, payment,

Until 12/09/2022 - sending the presentation to the address k.borek@itp.edu.pl,
